PART III - NARRATIVE

The Registrant is unable to file, without unreasonable effort or expense, its Annual Report on Form 10-K for the period ended December 31, 2018 (the "Form 10-K"). The Registrant expects to file the Form 10-K by March 18, 2019. In the fourth quarter of 2018, management identified an issue in internal control related to ineffective information technology general controls ("ITGCs") in the areas of user access and the completeness and accuracy of critical file maintenance reports related to certain information technology ("IT") systems that support the Company's financial reporting processes. As a result, certain of the Company's business process controls (automated and manual) that are dependent on the affected ITGCs were also deemed ineffective because they could have been adversely impacted. Management has determined that this issue is a material weakness in internal control.

Based on the substantive procedures completed by management to date, which are described below, the material weakness has not resulted in any identified misstatements to the financial statements, and there have been no changes to previously released financial results.

The Company believes that these control deficiencies were a result of system access that enabled certain employees to serve in multiple capacities in order to best serve customers. While certain compensating and process level controls were in place, validation procedures surrounding the completeness and accuracy of critical file maintenance reports proved insufficient to fully mitigate the risks that resulted from the manner in which access was granted.

As a result of the identification of the material weakness, the Company is in the process of completing certain substantive procedures to ensure the completeness and accuracy of critical file maintenance reports with respect to the impacted IT system for the year ended December 31, 2018, as well as a detailed integrity review of certain data elements subject to conflicting access privileges.

In addition, management has been implementing and continues to implement measures designed to ensure that control deficiencies contributing to the material weakness are remediated, such that these controls are designed, implemented, and operating effectively. The remediation actions include: (i) improving processes regarding the granting and review of access to IT systems impacting financial reporting to ensure access is limited to functions required for the performance of an employee's role; and (ii) enhancing the compensating controls related to the monitoring and review of activities performed by employees serving in conflicting capacities with a specific focus on access to systems supporting financial reporting processes.

Management believes that these actions will remediate the material weakness. The weakness will not be considered remediated, however, until the applicable controls operate for a sufficient period of time and management has concluded, through testing, that these controls are operating effectively. Management expects the remediation of this material weakness will be completed during 2019.
