ETC to provide custodial services in historic issuance of blockchain securities

Salt Lake City October 6, 2016 Electronic Transaction Clearing, Inc. (ETC) has integrated with t0's platform and will act as custodian of shares in a forthcoming blockchain preferred share offering from Overstock.com.

This is another piece of a puzzle we are assembling as we create the world's first blockchain-based securities trading platform, said Joe Cammarata, electronic trading veteran and newly-appointed President of t0. ETC is as eager as we are to be a part of the historic moment when the world's first digital security is issued using distributed ledger technology.

Under the agreement, ETC will provide custodian services to securities broker-dealer Keystone Capital Corporation, which has licensed t0's blockchain-based trading technology.

We at ETC are excited to be a part of this new and ground-breaking endeavor. This venture with t0 is a natural partnering for ETC in that it falls in line with ETC's core values and commitment to utilizing cutting-edge technology to continuously explore efficiencies in the securities markets, said Harvey Cloyd, CEO of ETC's parent, ETC Global Group. ETC's nimble clearing ecosystem and efficient transaction processing make it a perfect vehicle for serving as the first clearing firm to transact in these securities.

The securities described above will be offered by Overstock pursuant to a shelf registration statement on Form S-3, as amended, previously filed with and declared effective by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). A prospectus supplement related to the offering will be filed with the SEC. This press release does not constitute an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy any securities, nor shall there be any sale of these securities in any jurisdiction in which such offer, solicitation or sale would be unlawful prior to registration or qualification under the securities laws of any such jurisdiction.
