The Value Line Fund, Inc.

To Our Value Line

To Our Shareholders:

In the first six months of 2005, The Value Line Fund returned 2.59%, compared to the -0.81% return of the S&P 500 Index(1).

During the first six months of the year, the equity market had a mixed start, as solid corporate earnings growth and economic data proved insufficient to move the major market averages higher. Several factors have contributed to this lackluster environment. First, higher oil prices have concerned consumers and investors alike as they have recently tested their highs again. Higher energy prices can have a two-fold effect as they weaken consumer's purchasing power as well as reducing the profit margins of certain industries. Second, the Federal Reserve continues along its measured path of interest rate hikes, which probably won't be completed till sometime this fall. These higher short-term rates have not yet had a meaningful impact on longer-term rates, but the significant flattening of the yield curve over the past year will likely lower profit margins at financial corporations, which currently account for the largest weighting of the S & P 500, at over 20%. Lastly, given the strong operating margin improvement and the resulting strong earnings growth that U.S. corporations have delivered over the past two years, it would appear that going forward these gains will likely be more moderate.

The Value Line Fund generally invests in multi-cap stocks that are ranked in the highest category for price performance over the next six to twelve months by the Value Line Timeliness Ranking System. The System favors stocks with strong price and earnings momentum relative to those of all other companies in the Value Line Investment Survey of approximately 1,700 stocks. Currently, the Fund has significant weightings in the Consumer Discretionary and Information Technology sectors and is especially optimistic about the Home Building corporations, which can be volatile. The Fund is significantly underweighted in the Financial sector due to the slowing growth of earnings that we expect from this sector.

Looking forward, we expect the second half of the year to be better for equities. Despite the rising interest environment, economic growth is solid (see our Economic Observations for details on our outlook); U.S. corporations currently have high levels of cash holdings; and merger and acquisition activity looks like it will continue to increase. In addition, some of this cash will be used for equity buybacks as more companies continue to announce increases in their stock repurchasing programs.

As always, we appreciate your continued investment.

Sincerely,

/s/ Jean Bernhard Buttner

Economic Observations

The mature business expansion is now moving along at a modestly more deliberate 3.0%-3.5% pace, a level of activity that is being sustained by a resilient housing market, healthy levels of retail spending, and a solid rate of growth in industrial production. Recent trends, moreover, suggest that this mature business up cycle will continue pressing forward at a similarly moderate rate into 2006.

Helping to sustain this upturn are likely to be solid levels of activity in the housing, retail, industrial, and service sectors. Such growth will probably be accompanied by just modest rates of inflation. The wild card in this equation, meanwhile, and the reason that we are not likely to see a materially higher level of business growth, is the record high price for oil. Should that key commodity not stabilize in price, as we expect it will, the sustainability of the economic expansion, as well as the prolonged period of comparative of price stability, would be threatened.

Edgar Filing: VALUE LINE FUND INC - Form N-CSRS

This steady, but moderate, pace of U.S. economic improvement and the accompanying stable rates of inflation will have positive ramifications. That's because this combination should allow the Federal Reserve Board to bring its cycle of monetary tightening to a close over the next several months, without undue harm to the durability of the lengthy economic expansion.

FUND EXPENSES:

Example

As a shareholder of the Fund, you incur ongoing costs, including management fees; distribution and service (12b-1) fees; and other Fund expenses. This Example is intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The Example is based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the period and held for the entire period (January 1, 2005 through June 30, 2005).

Actual Expenses

The first line of the table below provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000=8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the table below provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Fund's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Fund's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Fund and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

Please note that the expenses in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs and will not help you determine the relative cost of owning different funds.

* Expenses are equal to the Fund's annualized expense ratio of 1.14% multiplied by the average account value over the period, multiplied by 181/365 to reflect the one-half period.

Notes to Financial Statements (unaudited)	The Value Line Fund, Inc. June 30, 2005

1. Significant Accounting Policies

The Fund is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, as a diversified, open-end management investment company whose primary investment objective is long-term growth of capital.

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. The following is a summary of significant accounting policies consistently followed by the Fund in the preparation of its financial statements.

(A) Security Valuation. Securities listed on a securities exchange are valued at the closing sales prices on the date as of which the net asset value is being determined. Securities traded on the NASDAQ Stock Market are valued at the NASDAQ Official Closing Price. In the absence of closing sales prices for such securities and for securities traded in the over-the-counter market, the security is valued at the midpoint between the latest available and representative asked and bid prices. Short-term instruments with maturities of 60 days or less at the date of purchase are valued at amortized cost, which approximates market value. Short-term instruments with maturities greater than 60 days at the date of purchase are valued at the mid point between the latest available and representative asked and bid prices, and commencing 60 days prior to maturity such securities are valued at amortized cost. Securities for which market quotations are not readily available or that are not readily marketable and all other assets of the Fund are valued at fair value as the Board of Directors may determine in good faith. In addition, the Fund may use the fair value of a security when the closing market price on the primary exchange where the security is traded no longer accurately reflects the value of a security due to factors affecting one or more relevant securities markets or the specific issuer.

(B) Repurchase Agreements. In connection with transactions in repurchase agreements, the Fund's custodian takes possession of the underlying collateral securities, the value of which exceeds the principal amount of the repurchase transaction, including accrued interest. To the extent that any repurchase transaction exceeds one business day, the value of the collateral is marked-to-market on a daily basis to ensure the adequacy of the collateral. In the event of default of the obligation to repurchase, the Fund has the right to liquidate the collateral and apply the proceeds in satisfaction of the obligation. Under certain circumstances, in the event of default or bankruptcy by the other party to the agreement, realization and/or retention of the collateral or proceeds may be subject to legal proceedings.

(C) Federal Income Taxes. It is the Fund's policy to comply with the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies, including the distribution requirements of the Tax Reform Act of 1986, and to distribute all of its taxable income to its shareholders. Therefore, no federal income tax or excise tax provision is required.

(D) Security Transactions and Distributions. Security transactions are accounted for on the date the securities are purchased or sold. Interest income is accrued as earned. Realized gains and losses on sales of securities are calculated for financial accounting and federal income tax purposes on the identified cost basis. Dividend income and distributions to shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend date. Distributions are determined in accordance with income tax regulations which may differ from generally accepted accounting principles.

(E) Representations and Indemnifications. In the normal course of business the Fund enters into contract that contain a variety of representations and warranties which provide general indemnifications. The maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown, as this would involve future claims that may be made against the Fund that have not yet occurred. However, based on experience, the Fund expects the risk of loss to be remote.

The Value Line Fund, Inc.

Factors Considered by the Independent Directors
in Approving the Agreement (unaudited)

The Investment Company Act of 1940 requires that the Fund's Agreement be approved annually by both the Board of Directors (collectively "the Directors") and a majority of the Directors who are not affiliated with Value Line, Inc. the Fund's investment adviser (the "Adviser") (the "Independent Directors") voting separately. The Directors have determined that the terms of the Fund's investment advisory agreement (the "Agreement") are fair and reasonable and that renewal of the contract is in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders. In making such determinations, the Independent Directors relied upon the assistance of counsel to the Independent Directors. Throughout the year, including the meeting specifically focused upon the review of the Agreement, the Independent Directors met in executive sessions separately from the Interested Directors of the Fund and any officers of Value Line.

Both in meetings specifically addressed to renewal of the Agreement and at other meetings during the course of the year, the Directors, including the Independent Directors, received materials relating to the Adviser's investment and management services under the Agreement. These materials included (i) information on the investment performance of the Fund, a peer group of funds and an index, (ii) sales and redemption data in respect of the Fund, (iii) the general investment outlook in the markets in which the Fund invests, (iv) arrangements in respect of the distribution of the Fund's shares, (v) the allocation of the Fund's brokerage, and (vi) the record of compliance with the Fund's investment policies and restrictions and with the Fund's Code of Ethics, and the structure and responsibilities of the Adviser's compliance department.

As part of the review of the Agreement, the Independent Directors requested and the Adviser provided additional information in order to evaluate the quality of the Adviser's services and the reasonableness of the fee under the Agreement. Among other items, this information included data or analyses of (1) management and other fees incurred by a peer group of funds selected by an independent evaluation service (the "Peer Group"), (2) expense ratios for the Fund and the Peer Group, (3) the investment performance for the Fund and its Peer Group, (4) the Adviser's financial results and condition, including its and certain of its affiliates' profitability from services performed for the Fund, (5) investment management staffing, and (6) the potential for achieving further economies of scale.

The following summarizes matters considered by the Directors in connection with their renewal of the Agreement. However, the Directors did not identify any single factor as all-important or controlling, and the summary does not detail all the matters that were considered.

Compliance and Investment Performance. The Directors determined that the Adviser had policies and systems reasonably designed to achieve compliance with the Fund's investment objective and regulatory requirements. The Directors also reviewed the Fund's investment performance, as well as the Fund's performance compared to both the performance of a peer group and the results of an index. The Fund outperformed its Peer Group for the most recent one-year period and the five-year period that ended December 31, 2004. Although the Fund underperformed its Peer Group for the three-year and 10-year periods ended December 31, 2004, and the Directors concluded that the Fund's overall performance supported the continuation of the Agreement.

The Adviser's Personnel and Methods. The Directors reviewed the background of members of the team responsible for the daily management of the Fund and the Fund's investment objective and discipline. The Independent Directors also engaged in discussions with senior management of the Adviser responsible for investment operations. The Directors

The Value Line Fund, Inc.
Factors Considered by the Independent Directors
in Approving the Agreement (unaudited)

concluded that the Adviser has the quality and depth of personnel and the well-developed methods essential to performing its duties under the Agreement.

Nature and Quality of Other Services. The Directors considered the nature, quality, cost and extent of other services provided to shareholders of the Fund. The Directors also considered the nature and extent of the other services provided by the Adviser's affiliates under other contracts and its supervision of third party service providers. Based on these considerations, the Directors concluded that the nature, quality, cost and extent of such services are satisfactory and reliable and serve the shareholders of the Fund well.

Management Fee and Expenses. The Directors considered the Adviser's fee under the Agreement relative to the management fees charged by the Peer Group. The Fund's management fee and total expenses for the most recent fiscal year were lower than the average fees and expense ratios for the Peer Group. The Directors concluded that the Adviser's fee was reasonable in light of the services and expertise provided to the Fund by the Adviser's management team and the Adviser's proprietary ranking system.

Profitability. The Directors considered the level of the Adviser's profits with respect to the management of the Fund. This consideration included a review of the Adviser's methodology in allocating certain of its costs to the management of each Fund. The Directors concluded that the Adviser's profits from management of the Funds, including the financial results derived from the Fund, bear a reasonable relationship to the services rendered and are fair for the management of the Fund in light of the business risks involved.

Economies of Scale. The Directors noted that, given the current and anticipated size of the Fund, any perceived and potential economies of scale were not yet a relevant consideration for the Fund.

Other Benefits to the Adviser. The Directors also considered the character and amount of fees paid by the Fund, other than under the Agreement, and by the Fund's shareholders for services provided by the Value Line and affiliates.

Conclusion. The Directors, in light of the Adviser's overall performance, considered it appropriate to continue to retain the management services of the Adviser. Based on their evaluation of all material factors deemed relevant and the advice of independent counsel, the Directors concluded that the Agreement with the Fund is fair and reasonable and voted to approve the continuation of the Agreement for another year.
