Item 8.01 Other Events.

On January 25, 2008, we entered into an agreement with a new customer to provide certain design, technology consulting, construction management and facility maintenance services. We anticipate generating a total of approximately $116 million in revenue on a cost plus basis assuming that all the services to be provided under the agreement are provided as expected by the parties. We currently expect to provide approximately sixty percent of the services during 2008. However, the agreement may be terminated by the customer at any time upon written notice. In addition, we will rely on subcontractors to perform parts of the contracted services and may experience delays or cancellations in the delivery of certain services. Accordingly, there is no assurance as to the timing or level of revenue to be generated over the term of the agreement.

Statements contained in this report contain “forward-looking statements,” within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act, and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. These forward-looking statements are based on the beliefs and expectations of management, as well as the assumptions made using information currently available to management. In this context, forward-looking statements may address matters such as our expected future business and financial performance, and often contain words such as “guidance,” “expects,” “anticipates,” “intends,” “plans,” “believes,” “seeks,” “should,” or “will.” Forward-looking statements by their nature address matters that are, to different degrees, uncertain. For the Company, particular uncertainties that could adversely or positively affect its future results include the following: the Company’s reliance on a significant portion of its revenues from a limited number of customers; the uncertainty as to whether the Company can replace its declining backlog; risks involved in properly managing complex projects; risks relating to revenues under customer contracts, many of which can be canceled on short notice; risks related to the implementation of the Company’s strategic plan, including the ability to make acquisitions and the performance and future integration of acquired businesses; and other risks and uncertainties disclosed in the Company’s filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, which are available at the Securities and Exchange Commission’s internet website (www.sec.gov) and to which reference is hereby made. These uncertainties may cause Company’s actual future results to be materially different than those expressed in the Company’s forward-looking statements. The Company does not undertake to update its forward-looking statements.
