COMPANHIA SIDERURGICA NACIONAL COMMENTS ON

TRANSACTION WITH WHEELING-PITTSBURGH

Sao Paulo, Brazil, August 3, 2006 - Following the announcement earlier today by Wheeling-Pittsburgh Corporation (NASDAQ: WPSC) of an agreement with Companhia Siderurgica Nacional ("CSN") (NYSE: SID) on the framework for a merger to combine the North American assets of CSN, the second-largest fully-integrated steel producer in Brazil, with Wheeling-Pittsburgh, Marcos Lutz, executive vice president, Infrastructure & Energy, said:

"We are very pleased by the significant progress we are making with Wheeling-Pittsburgh's board and management toward combining the North American steel producing assets of our respective companies and creating a much stronger competitor. Together with Wheeling-Pittsburgh, we have looked at this combination from the bottom-up, and through our rigorous analysis we know that this transaction has enormous industrial and economic logic. Not only will this transaction provide Wheeling-Pittsburgh's shareholders the best value for their investment, short and long-term, but equally important we believe it is the best choice for Wheeling-Pittsburgh's employees and union.

"Furthermore, CSN provides Wheeling-Pittsburgh with a long-term slab agreement, capital infusion and realizable synergies that enhances the attractiveness of this transaction. CSN is a long term investor in the steel industry, and it is our goal to evolve the combined entities into a truly world class, low-cost steel producing enterprise that will compete successfully on both a regional and global basis," concluded Mr. Lutz.
