Final dates for submitting bids for the construction of the P-51 and P-52 platforms postponed

(Rio de Janeiro, January 10, 2003). PETROLEO BRASILEIRO S.A Petrobras, (BOVESPA: PETR3 / PETR4, NYSE: PBR / PBRA, LATIBEX: XPBR / XPBRA), Brazil's largest oil and gas, petrochemicals and energy company, announces that, in September 2002, Petrobras began the process for contracting the construction of the Petrobras 51 (P-51) and Petrobras 52 (P-52) platforms for developing respectively, the Marlim Sul and Roncador fields in the Campos Basin located in the offshore coastal region of Rio de Janeiro State.

Each platform will be built according to a basic three-stage construction program: the first involving the construction and integration of the hull and the processing on-board utilities plant, the second for the gas compression modules and the third for the electric power generation modules.

The final date for delivering bids for the gas compression module is scheduled for January 13, 2003, January 21, 2003 for the electric power generation module and January 27, 2003 for the platform construction contract.

In view of the size of the platforms and the complex nature of the processes involved in the contracting process, the prospective bidders have been seeking a significant amount of technical and managerial clarification as part of the preparatory work prior to submitting proposals. Petrobras has been providing this clarification through the issue of circulars by its Tender Bid Committee.

Today, in the light of several formal requests by potential bidders to postpone bid delivery dates, Petrobras has, on the basis of the respective Tender Bid Committees' recommendations, decided to extend the final dates for receiving proposals as follows:

- Gas compression module -	February 12, 2003
- Power generation module -	February 19, 2003
- Construction and integration of the hull and processing/onboard utilities plant -	February 26, 2003
