Harmony clarifies its future intentions in advance of the vote on the proposed IAMGold transaction

Introduction

Harmony believes that it would be useful for its fellow Gold Fields shareholders to have clarity on its future intentions ahead of the general meeting of Gold Fields to be held on 7 December 2004 to vote on the proposed IAMGold transaction (the Gold Fields general meeting ). The resolutions in relation to the proposed IAMGold transaction require approval by a simple majority of Gold Fields shareholders present in person or by proxy in order for the transaction to be implemented (the IAMGold resolutions ).

Edgar Filing: GOLD FIELDS LTD - Form 425

Key issues relating to the IAMGold vote

Harmony considers that there are two significant unresolved issues in relation to the vote at the Gold Fields general meeting.

Firstly, Harmony has received legal advice that, as it has applied for leave to appeal, the operation and execution of the order of the Competition Appeal Court has been suspended. Accordingly, Harmony is entitled to vote all of the shares that it acquired under the early settlement offer at the Gold Fields general meeting. Harmony fully intends to vote its shares which now amount to approximately 11.8% of the entire issued share capital of Gold Fields. To clarify the misleading media release circulated by Gold Fields on 1 December 2004, Harmony advises that it has not been refused leave to appeal by any court. The courts approached by Harmony have taken the view that its appeal of the order of the Competition Appeal Court is not urgent because Harmony has alternative remedies. In particular, Harmony may apply to the High Court to interdict the implementation of the proposed IAMGold transaction until such time as its appeal has been decided.

Secondly, Harmony believes that, despite the announcement of an amendment to the terms of the proposed IAMGold transaction, there remains substantial opposition to the proposed IAMGold transaction. Such substantial opposition includes Harmony and Norilsk, who, in aggregate, own approximately 31.8% of the entire issued share capital of Gold Fields, as well as a significant number of other Gold Fields shareholders who, despite the amendment thereto, have indicated to Harmony that they continue to oppose the proposed IAMGold transaction.

Harmony is of the view that Gold Fields is in breach of its agreement with the Bank of New York ( BONY ) insofar as it has failed to inform BONY of this substantial opposition. As a result, BONY could be obliged to give Gold Fields management a discretionary proxy to vote, in its sole discretion, any ADSs that are not voted in respect of the IAMGold resolutions (the discretionary proxy ). Harmony firmly believes that the discretionary proxy should not be used in an attempt by Gold Fields management to force through the IAMGold resolutions against the wishes of voting Gold Fields shareholders, including Harmony.

Harmony's intentions dependant on the outcome of the IAMGold vote

In Harmony's view, there are two possible scenarios in terms of the outcome of the vote on the IAMGold resolutions.

1. If the IAMGold resolutions are approved, but would not have been approved if (i) Harmony's vote had been accepted and/or (ii) the discretionary proxy had not been voted, Harmony intends to apply for an interdict to prevent the implementation of the proposed IAMGold transaction. To the extent that the court finds in Harmony's favour, Harmony would intend to ensure that either the proposed IAMGold transaction is never implemented or, to the extent that Gold Fields' management does implement the transaction, it is later unwound. Consequently, Gold Fields shareholders should be aware that, in the event that Gold Fields' management does succeed in forcing through the proposed IAMGold transaction, it will be attempting to implement a transaction that is both contrary to the wishes of the majority of its shareholder base and that is, in Harmony's view, ultimately unsustainable.

2. If the IAMGold resolutions are not approved, whether or not Harmony's vote is accepted or the discretionary proxy is voted, Harmony believes that this will represent a resounding rejection by Gold Fields shareholders of the cornerstone of Gold Fields' board and management's strategy. In these circumstances, Harmony is of the firm view that Gold Fields shareholders' best way forward would be to accept Harmony's value enhancing proposal to create the world's premier gold mining company, a truly compelling investment proposition.

Harmony encourages its fellow Gold Fields shareholders to vote against the proposed IAMGold transaction.
