EMC Corporation (the Company) revised a question and answer in an FAQ which was contained in a filing made pursuant to Rule 14a-12 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the Exchange Act), on March 31, 2016, to read as follows.

14. How will the new combined business position us for success?

The combined business will be incredibly well-positioned for growth in the most strategic areas of next generation IT including digital transformation, software-defined data center, converged infrastructure, cloud, mobile and security. We have a solid foundation to build upon that features two of the world s greatest technology companies with leadership positions in Servers, Storage, Virtualization and PCs.

The combination of Dell and EMC, along with their Strategically Aligned businesses will result in a technology powerhouse that will deliver world-class products and solutions to customers and partners. This complementary and aligned family of businesses will drive innovation, customer choice and the ability to attract and retain world-class talent.

The coming together of Dell and EMC will create a business with approximately $74 billion in revenue on a FY2016 (Dell fiscal year ended January 29, 2016) pro forma basis. Dell and EMC have demonstrated abilities to win in fast-changing markets. The combined business is expected to possess unmatched scale, strength and flexibility to help customers achieve their goals, supported by deep investments in R&D and innovation and a privately controlled ownership structure.

The Company revised an external talking point which was contained in a filing made pursuant to Rule 14a-12 under the Exchange Act on March 31, 2016, to read as follows.

This transaction will create a leader in the extremely attractive high-growth areas of the $2 trillion information technology market with approximately $74 billion in revenue on a FY2016 (Dell fiscal year ended January 29, 2016) pro forma basis and will be exceptionally well-positioned for growth in the most strategic areas of next-generation IT including digital transformation, software-defined data center, converged infrastructure, hybrid cloud, mobile and security.
