Lisbon, Portugal, 2 August 2007 Portugal Telecom, SGPS, S.A. informs that its subsidiary PT Comunicações, S.A. (PT) was sanctioned by the Portuguese Competition Authority (AdC), for alleged abuse of dominant position by refusing to provide access to its ducts.

The AdC applied a fine of Euro 38 million, of which Euro 200 thousand refers to 20 denials to provide access between 2001 and 2003, and the remaining Euro 37.8 million refers to 19 denials to provide access between 2003 and 2005.

This sanction is not only undue, but, above all, is inexplicable and disproportionate.

PT regrets that this was the outcome of the investigation conducted since July 2003 by the AdC, and considers the censure to be unfounded and unfair. PT can only express its astonishment at the fine that has been applied, having thus decided to lodge an application for annulment of this decision with the courts.

In effect:

- 1. The process was originated on complaints filed by TV Tel in June 2003 and Cabovisão in November 2004. PT was only informed of the fact after more than one year of investigation, through a statement of objection dated September 2004, which was followed by another one dated July 2005.
- 2. PT notes that in all known precedent cases regarding issues with the use of essential infrastructures with limited access, the European Commission only applied fines in exceptional situations and merely in cases where the company did not duly comply with a clear indication of how it should abide by the competition rules. This was not the case in question, whereby the AdC refused to discuss with PT the criteria to adopt.
- 3. The AdC condemned PT for essentially having refused 39 access requests to its ducts, which had been submitted by TV Tel and Cabovisão between 2001 and 2005, after which the reference wholesale offer for access to ducts (ORAC) was implemented by ICP-ANACOM. It should be noted that during the same period PT fulfilled 1,594 access requests submitted by TV Tel and Cabovisão, in line with its normal business practices.

Edgar Filing: PORTUGAL TELECOM SGPS SA - Form 6-K

- 4. All access refusals were justified by the need to reserve space for the expansion and maintenance of the telecommunications network. Worth highlighting that the AdC recognises that there is no evidence of PT having granted a more favourable treatment to TV Cabo than to TV Tel or Cabovisão. There is no known precedent of a refusal to provide access to an essential infrastructure having been considered abusive without simultaneously being discriminatory.
- 5. The ducts to which access was effectively refused represent an insignificant part of the infrastructure required for the development of the TV Tel and Cabovisão networks. In effect, the networks of both companies used and continue to largely use PT s infrastructure.
- 6. The refusals to provide access did not, nor could have had, a significant impact on the development of the respective networks. TV Cabo was and continues to be faced frequently with similar restrictions, having overcome the inexistence or lack of availability of ducts through the use of satellite.
- 7. During 2000 and 2005, the telecommunications market underwent a significant liberalisation process, during which neither the European Commission nor the competition authorities of all other member states ever sanctioned situations of breach of competition rules with even remotely similar fines.
- 8. It is worth highlighting that the sanctions applied to other European incumbent operators of much greater size than PT for competition restrictive practices, with sensitive impacts, which is not the case in question, were significantly lower in amount than the fine applied by the AdC.
- 9. PT would like to see the AdC aligned with European competition policy best practices and behave in a manner consistent with legal certainty principles, particularly since PT has implemented compliance measures since 2003, increasingly without hope of a constructive dialogue with the AdC.
- 10. PT consequently regrets having to contest, once again, an AdC decision in the courts. PT is however confident the judicial system will ultimately, and once more, be just.
