Historical Performance and Manager's Discussion (Unaudited) December 31, 2018

Shelton BDC Income Fund (Portfolio Manager: William Mock)

The Shelton BDC Income Fund ("the Fund", sym: LOANX/LOAIX) focuses its investments in securities of Business Development Companies ("BDCs") including common stock, preferred stock, convertible bonds and other debt. Under normal market conditions, at least 80% of the Fund's net assets will be invested in BDC related securities. The Fund's investment objective is to provide a high level of income with the potential for capital appreciation.

For the one-year period ending December 31, 2018, the Fund's Investor Class provided a -5.13% total return to shareholders, while the Fund's Institutional Class provided a -4.80% total return to shareholders. The Fund's benchmark, the Wells Fargo BDC Index (sym: WFBDC), returned -6.58% for the same period. At period-end, 100% of the Fund's investments were in U.S. domiciled securities. The breakdown of the portfolio was 95.76% listed BDCs, 3.24% Specialty Finance & Asset Management, and 1.00% cash.

In 2018, BDCs traded sideways in January and then fell in early February, leaving the Fund down nearly 6% year-to-date. BDC fundamentals (earnings, yields, dividends) remained stable but there was pessimism on the prospect of rising interest rates and the potential impact of a global trade war on middle market companies. As these fears subsided and the focus shifted back to the fundamentals the sector rallied beginning in March, recovering the early losses and leaving the fund up over 7% year-to-date by the first week of August. There was very little volatility through the end of September, but that ended with a nearly 6% selloff and subsequent bounce back in October and early November. BDCs were caught in the broad market selloff in December that negatively impacted equities and corporate bonds, with both share classes of the Fund losing over 9% in the month of December. The selloff was across the sector, not driven by the fundamentals of each BDC, but fears of potential economic slowdown or recession and the impact it could have on the middle market companies that are financed by BDCs.

Despite the volatility and poor 4th quarter returns, Shelton Capital Management remains optimistic about long term performance of the industry and the Fund. Shelton Capital Management pays particular attention to management teams in selecting investments, targeting those teams that have most successfully managed past credit downturns and demonstrated the ability to generate attractive rates of return through their portfolio of loans/investments.

Finally, though the timing is uncertain, the removal of the current Acquired Fund Fees and Expenses (AFFE) disclosure requirement is widely anticipated by industry participants. A formal application for BDC exemption from the AFFE was filed in September 2018 by The Coalition for Business Development and several large BDC management firms. This SEC's current requirement, passed in January 2007, requires a fund-of-funds' prospectus to include the operating expenses of the underlying funds and has had the unintended consequence of making BDCs ineligible for indices such as the Russell 2000 and S&P 500. A potential overturn of the rule may be a large technical positive and expand institutional ownership of BDCs upon their inclusion in the major indices.

We thank you for your investment and the confidence you have placed in the Shelton BDC Income Fund.

Historical Performance and Manager's Discussion (Unaudited) December 31, 2018

Shelton Real Estate Income Fund (Portfolio Manager: William Mock)

The Shelton Real Estate Income Fund ("the Fund", sym: RENTX/RENIX) focuses its investments in real estate securities, including securities issued by real estate investment trusts (REITs). Under normal market conditions, at least 80% of its net assets will be invested in income producing real estate common equity, preferred equity and debt securities. The Fund's investment objective is to provide a high level of income with the potential for capital appreciation.

For the one-year period ending December 31, 2018, the Fund's Investor Class provided a (6.55)% total return to shareholders, while the Fund's Institutional Class provided a (6.38)% total return to shareholders. During the same time, the bond market (as defined by the Bloomberg/Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index) produced a (3.79)% total return. The Fund had near full exposure to the U.S. stock market as of December 31, 2018, with a cash position at year-end of 7%.

REITs had a rough start to the year as the 10-year Treasury yield broke out of its trading range, headed steadily upwards from 2.41% at the start of the year to 2.95% by mid-February. This jolted REIT markets as financing costs for REIT managers rose and investors weighed the possibility that the low rate environment which has attracted swaths of capital to the space and delivered substantial returns was coming to an end. As the 10-year established a new range over the summer around 2.90%, REITs recouped their losses and more, following the S&P 500 higher as investors pounced on significantly diminished market valuations. This rally proved to be short-lived however, as the strong performance of equities and firm macro data solidified a steep Fed dot plot, thus pushing the 10-year still higher. REITs reacted sharply to the negative when the 10-year rose over 3.00% in September. Outflows from REITs were only compounded in October as US 3Q earnings emerged, appearing weaker than previous quarters and sparking calls of a global slowdown and the end of the business cycle. REITs, who some industry leaders had already prophesized to be in the later innings of the cycle, declined 6.70% in the fourth quarter. The Fund largely tracked the Index for the year, underperforming the Index ultimately by 187bps. This was due to the Fund's exposure to some of the less defensive sectors of real estate such as Data Centers and Lodging which underperformed some of the more defensive sectors at the end of the year such as Triple-Net and Healthcare.

Moving forward, Shelton Capital Management remains cautiously optimistic about REIT valuations. We feel that commercial real estate fundamentals, while decelerating, remain sound. Supply did pick up in 2018 across most sectors, as well as new construction in gateway markets where development has historically been subdued. Despite these headwinds, there remain significant bright spots in the space such as the Industrial sector which is showing robust growth. As Amazon has disrupted retailing channels and negatively impacted the shopping center and mall real estate sectors, several beneficiaries have emerged in commercial real estate including industrial, data centers, and cell towers which the Fund is overweight. As the Fed has begun to shift back to a more dovish stance, we believe there is significant room for REITs as a sector to post solid risk-adjusted returns. Moreover, from a historical standpoint,

Edgar Filing: SCM Trust - Form N-CSR

REITs have demonstrated that if the Fed is raising rates for the right reasons (a thriving economy), they too can thrive.

We thank you for your support and the confidence you have placed in the Shelton Real Estate Income Fund.

Historical Performance and Manager's Discussion (Unaudited) December 31, 2018

Shelton Tactical Credit Fund (Portfolio Manager: William Mock)

We are pleased to write the fourth full year shareholder letter for the Shelton Tactical Credit Fund (“the Fund”, sym: DEBTX/DEBIX) which launched in December 2014. The Fund’s investment objective is to seek current income and capital appreciation. We seek to achieve this objective using related credit assets on both the long and short side to generate an attractive rate of return and reduce risk. At times of elevated risk, the Fund may invest 100% of the portfolio in cash or cash equivalents in an effort to protect the portfolio against perceived risks. Portfolio construction is implemented with a relative value framework and looks across the entire balance sheet of a corporation from senior secured liabilities down through subordinated, equity-linked securities. This hedged approach is designed to generate performance that is less reliant on the direction of the overall market than a typical credit- based fund.

Market Review

High-yield bonds got off to a solid start in January amid a rally in equities that was tempered by a steady rise in the 10-year Treasury yield. After the 10-year settled at a multi-year high the following month, investor sentiment soured and equities and high-yield retreated, exhibiting significant volatility. High-yield continued sideways with significant volatility all the way into April as investors weighed the ramifications of the Tax Bill and the prospect of the Fed raising rates faster than anticipated. In mid-May, the 10-year reached still further highs and new speculation surrounding China trade, North Korea relations, OPEC policy, and Italian elections perpetuated market volatility. At the end of June, high-yield was flat on the year.

High-yield firmed up in July and delivered strong returns as China trade talks showed hope, 2Q earnings showed strength, and new issuance was very light. As the S&P 500 rallied throughout the rest of the summer, so did high yield, with spreads eventually compressing to their tightest in ten years in September. The rally came to an abrupt halt in October as the SPX suffered its sharpest monthly decline since September 2011. Global growth concerns emerged as the culprit with 3Q earnings particularly in tech showing to be weaker than 2Q. Additionally, little progress on China trade talks, fresh highs in the 10-year yield, and declining oil prices weighed on equities and high-yield.

In late November, high-yield bond prices seemed to have bottomed as the Fed took a more dovish stance and a temporary ceasefire in China trade talks was established. However, in December, the decline resumed and accelerated as the cumulative worries of global growth slowing, a hawkish Fed, trade disputes, and falling WTI compounded.

CCC-rated bonds outperformed higher-rated credits for a third consecutive year in 2018.

Primary market activity decreased significantly in 2018, with a volume of $185 billion, versus $322 billion in 2017.

The top-performing sectors in US high-yield were Healthcare, Telecom, and Retail.

Portfolio Commentary

The Fund's investor class returned -1.61% and the institutional class returned -1.39% for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2018, versus the Fund's benchmark, the Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index, which returned 0.01% during this period.

After what was a complacent and listless 2017 for high-yield, our belief was that there remained significant value in the high yield markets given the favorable effects of tax reform on corporate fundamentals. Furthermore, this reform particularly benefited more leveraged businesses. Additionally, default rates remained very low and capital markets remained open. With these dynamics in mind, we added some lower-rated CCC credits to our portfolio at the onset of the year which we believed to be attractive from a relative-value standpoint.

After the first couple months of the year, it was clear that the 2017 era of complacency was over. As volatility picked up significantly in equities, high-yield, and interest rates, we deployed our tactical rotational trade with success in February and March. The fund performed strongly in the first half of the year, as investors came around to CCC bonds.

A central driver of volatility throughout the year remained interest rate speculation. As the strength of the US economy appeared in various macro data, commodities percolated, and inflation rose modestly, the certainty of near-term rate hikes increased. Investors in the post-2008 era know not to "fight the Fed" and so thus this steepening of expected rates incited a couple of market tantrums in 2018, in February and then in the fourth quarter. Amid this rate uncertainty, the Fund kept to its strategy of owning shorter duration, high coupon bonds with an emphasis on companies with tangible assets and high relative cash flows.

The fourth quarter of this year was a tough one. The Fund was tested as high-yield experienced its worst quarter in some time. We deployed our rotational trade a couple times as prices declined to try and capitalize on what we believed to be an overdone sell-off, but our timing was poor, and prices continued further downward. Due to the market sell-off in Q4 2018, especially with respect to high yield bonds, the Fund management made the tactical decision to hold a high cash balance in the Fund. Throughout the quarter we believed in the fundamentals underpinning credit markets and saw no major idiosyncratic issues in any of our credits. Looking ahead, we believe credit markets, and the portfolio, are back on track in 2019, and we will be particularly focused on mitigating volatility. We strive to manage a consistent portfolio from a long-run perspective and we will continue to invest with this objective in mind.

The top industry concentrations for the Fund were Industrials, Services, and Telecom. The Fund continues to avoid Oil, Commodity, Financials, and Real Estate sectors.

In an environment that can change on a dime, we believe portfolio construction that includes tactical investing, active hedging, and relative liquidity will be paramount. Keeping an “ear to the ground” will be as important as ever. The strategy of simply “owning the market” will not work. We believe passive investing will underperform a more active approach. The foundation of portfolio construction in uncertain times must be predicated on capital preservation and one which includes a wide set of investment tools. Delivering attractive risk adjusted returns will necessitate hedging, tactical re-allocation between asset classes, a laser focus on liquidity, and the flexibility to change investment direction quickly.

We thank you for your support and the confidence you have placed in the Shelton Tactical Credit Fund.

Historical Performance and Manager's Discussion (Unaudited) December 31, 2018

Shelton International Select Equity Fund (Portfolio Manager: Andrew Manton)

Since 2009, the team has been investing together using rigorous, bottom-up, fundamental stock selection to deliver attractive risk-adjusted returns for our investors.

For the Shelton International Select Equity Fund (“the Fund”, sym: SISLX/SISEX) our investment philosophy is centered around the concept of the competitive corporate life cycle. Our framework establishes a level global playing field from which to assess a company’s ability to create value for shareholders. We recognize that companies evolve over time, and that the risks they face and the opportunities they capitalize on will differ at the various stages of their development. We directly measure this relationship between a company’s competitive opportunities and challenges, its economic performance, and its valuation in the equity market as it travels along the corporate life cycle. And, in doing so, we believe we have established a solid framework from which to generate more consistent excess returns for our investors over time.

Market Overview

For international equity investors, the twelve-month period ending December 31, 2018 was the worst year of this decade, with the benchmark MSCI All Country World Ex-US index returning -14.20%. Both politicians and central bankers contributed to the negativity, along with investor concern that the current global economic boom may be peaking.

Among the year’s biggest market moving news, US-China acrimony turned into a full-on trade war in 2018. President Donald Trump began the year by slapping tariffs on solar panels and washing machines, next steel and aluminum, and then $50 billion more of Chinese goods in March. China retaliated later in March with tariffs on US agriculture products, which resulted in another round of U.S. tariffs.

The tit-for-tat looked like it would subside on Dec. 1, when Presidents Trump and Xi agreed to a truce until March 1, 2019—which postponed Washington’s plan to tax $200 billion more of Chinese imports. But a few days later, Canadian authorities, at the request of the US, arrested the CFO of Huawei Technologies, the Chinese telecom giant at the eye of the intellectual-property storm that is rocking US-China relations. Both Chinese and US markets tumbled after that, as investors feared more trade hostilities would disrupt the global economy and specifically hit China as it groans under an increasingly heavy debt burden.

Across the Atlantic, Theresa May continued to fight in vain for a deal with the EU on how the UK will exit the EU—and to get her own party and Parliament to agree to that same deal. Though she survived a no-confidence motion in December, the British public and investors still have no confidence with what the “Brexit” will look like. Meanwhile, leadership in the European mainland’s three largest economies has begun weakening: Angela Merkel is stepping down from her party’s top spot in Germany, Emmanuel Macron is losing popularity in France and Italy’s two-party populist coalition is further bickering.

Amid this political uncertainty came monetary instability. By the fourth quarter, the European Central Bank became the latest major central bank to announce an end to their quantitative easing program – adding further pressure to a system that was already showing signs of economic strain. By the end of the year, central banks came under considerable political pressure to ease their hawkish stance and continue to supply plenty of liquidity to the banking systems.

As important, investors have also begun asking if earnings will start to fall or at least decelerate soon. Euro zone GDP in 2018 grew at its slowest pace since 2014, Japanese GDP ground to a halt in the third quarter of 2018 after 13 consecutive quarters of positive results, and there are signs the US economy is catching a cold as analysts continued to decrease earnings expectations for 2019.

No region was spared this pessimism, though it came at different times. For most of the year, China fears had emerging markets faring worse. Then, monetary tightening refocused the pessimism on developed markets, with both ending the year down 14-15%. Perhaps thanks to its still-easy monetary policy, Japan managed to be the least bad major market, followed by South America and Eastern Europe. On the other end of the spectrum, China fell more than 20%, and Turkey, with a currency in crisis and politics turning dangerously authoritarian, saw a 40% drop in US dollar terms in its main equity index.

In terms of sectors, only something as defensive as utilities withstood the volatility. Ending the year flat made it the best-performing sector. Healthcare, with its earnings visibility, was the next best. Then came energy, as crude oil rallied till early October—OPEC cut output, while the US got tough on Iran—but then gave up all of the year’s gains and then some, during the last quarter. The sectoral declines intensified with real estate, industrials and materials, linked to the macro cycle. And they worsened with technology and consumer discretionary (which includes consumer Internet), the two sectors that have been most buoyed by the past decade of cheap money and broader economic optimism.

Performance Review

The Fund returned -13.17% (Institutional class–no load), -13.41% (Investor class–no load) for the year ending December 31, 2018, outperforming the Fund’s benchmark, the MSCI ACWI ex US Index, which returned -14.20% during this period.

We are happy to report the portfolio outperformed across major regions such as Asia Pacific ex-Japan and the UK in 2018. The top country-specific contributors to outperformance were Germany, Denmark and South Korea, with tactical stock selection boosting performance in Germany and Denmark, and outperformance in South Korea assisted by an underweight allocation. The portfolio underperformed across major regions including Western Europe, China, Japan and Latin America. Lastly, the Fund contributed positively across North America, Eastern Europe and Middle East and Northern Africa (MENA).

Overall, the portfolio delivered sector-based outperformance across Healthcare, Technology, Consumer Staples, Communication Services and Real Estate. Outperformance in Healthcare was generated by superior stock selection, and was the largest positive contributor to returns. Relative gains in Technology, Consumer Staples, Communication Services and Real Estate also added to performance. Finally, Consumer Discretionary, Financials, Industrials, Materials and Energy detracted from the Fund's performance. Underperformance in Industrials and Energy was the result of sector and stock-specific volatility during the U.S. and China trade talks and slumping crude oil prices during the Fourth Quarter.

As always, the Shelton International Select Equity strategy seeks to deliver its excess returns over time through superior stock selection. Amongst the top performers over the course of the year was Ambu. Based in Denmark, Ambu is the world's leading provider of single use endoscopes with an addressable market of 90 million procedures in 2020 and limited competition. As healthcare governing bodies around the world continue to warn doctors about the increase in infections caused by contaminated, reusable endoscopes, Ambu is well-positioned to take market share from firms specializing in reusable scopes. Another top contributor was Wirecard, the German provider of internet-based and mobile payment and processing services. Wirecard has established itself as a leading player in European payment processing space among small firms, and has expanded its business in both developed and emerging markets. Given 85% of global payments are still made in physical cash, we expect that Wirecard should continue to see its client base grow as more payments become digitized. Lastly, Japanese media giant, CyberAgent, continued to engage new users within its television streaming and gaming segments. However, we became skeptical of the gaming segment's ability to sustain new user growth without higher-than-expected capital investment towards new titles. Given CyberAgent's shares' rapid price appreciation and uncertainty regarding future performance in gaming, we decided that additional upside was limited and exited the position in the fourth quarter.

French auto-supplier Valeo underperformed the overall portfolio and detracted from performance as the sector was hit by Chinese tariffs and President Trump threatening similar duties on the EU. While declining auto sales in major markets and trade talks between the U.S. and China are temporary headwinds, Valeo's focus on innovative technologies, along with its diligent management team, place the company in a strong position to benefit in an industry seeking more energy efficiency. Another significant detractor was Dutch bank ING Groep, which experienced weak trading revenues, margin pressure and cost efficiencies amidst challenging market conditions. Despite a difficult year, the bank remains on target to meet its capital buildup target, and is seeing positive momentum in loan growth and customer gains. Should cost discipline remain stable, ING Groep will be in position to achieve its 2020 financial targets. Lastly, French lender BNP Paribas lagged the market as it continued to combat weak performance in French and Italian retail, as well as disappointing fixed income and equity trading revenues.

We thank you for your investment in the Fund and for your continued support of our firm.

About Your Fund's Expenses (Unaudited) December 31, 2018

The Funds' advisor, Shelton Capital Management ("Shelton Capital"), believes it is important for you to understand the impact of costs on your investment. All mutual funds have operating expenses. As a shareholder of the Funds, you incur two types of costs: (1) transaction costs, including sales charges (loads) on purchase payments, reinvested dividends, or other distributions, redemption fees, and exchange fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including management fees, distribution fees and other Fund expenses. Operating expenses, which are deducted from the Funds' gross income, directly reduce the investment return of the Funds. The Funds' expenses are expressed as a percentage of its average net assets. This figure is known as the expense ratio. This example is intended to help you understand your ongoing cost (in dollars) of investing in the Funds and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the period and held for the entire period from July 1, 2018 to December 31, 2018.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the tables below provide information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses you have paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Funds' actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Funds' actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Funds and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds. The Funds do not charge any sales charges. There is a redemption fee of 2% for shares of the Greater China Fund purchased that are held for 90 days or less from the date of purchase.

Edgar Filing: SCM Trust - Form N-CSR

Please note that the expenses shown in the tables are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional cost, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the tables are useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher. The calculations assume no shares were bought or sold during the period. Your actual costs may have been higher or lower, depending on the amount of your investment and the timing of any purchases or redemptions.

More information about the Funds' expenses can be found in this report. For additional information on operating expenses and other shareholder costs, please refer to the Funds' prospectus.

(a) Security Valuation — Inputs used to value corporate debt securities generally include relative credit information, observed market movements, sector news, U.S. Treasury yield curve or relevant benchmark curve, and other market information, which may include benchmark yields, reported trades, broker-dealer quotes, issuer spreads, benchmark securities, bids, offers, and reference data, such as market research publications, when available (“Other Market Information”). Equity securities listed on a national or international exchange are valued at the last reported sales price. Futures contracts are valued at the settle price, depending on the exchange the contract trades on, typically as of 4:15 p.m., Eastern Time. Municipal securities are valued by an independent pricing service at a price determined by a matrix pricing method. This technique generally considers such factors as yields or prices of bonds of comparable quality, type of issue, coupon, maturity, ratings and general market conditions. U.S. government securities for which market quotations are readily available are valued at the mean between the closing bid and asked prices provided by an independent pricing service. U.S. agency securities consisting of mortgage pass-through certificates are valued using dealer quotations provided by an independent pricing service. U.S. Treasury Bills are valued at amortized cost which approximates market value. Securities with remaining maturities of 60 days or less are valued on the amortized cost basis as reflecting fair value.

Securities for which market quotes are not readily available from the Trust’s third-party pricing service are valued at fair value, determined in good faith and in accordance with procedures adopted by the Board of Trustees. The Board has delegated to the Advisor’s Pricing Committee the responsibility for determining the fair value, subject to the Board oversight and the review of the pricing decisions at its quarterly meetings. For a description of the Advisor, see Note 2.

(b) Federal Income Taxes — No provision is considered necessary for federal income taxes. The Funds intend to qualify for and elect the tax treatment applicable to regulated investment companies under the Internal Revenue Code and to distribute all their taxable income to shareholders.

(c) Security Transactions, Investment Income and Distributions to Shareholders — Security transactions are recorded on the trade date. Interest income is recorded on the accrual basis. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date. Withholding taxes on foreign dividends have been provided for, in accordance with the Trust's understanding of the applicable country's tax rules and rates. Discounts or premiums on debt securities are accreted or amortized to interest income over the lives of the respective securities using the effective interest method. Distributions to shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend. Income distributions and capital gain distributions are determined in accordance with income tax regulations which may differ from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These differences are primarily due to differing treatments for PFICs, wash sales, REIT adjustments and post-October capital losses.

Distributions received from investments in securities that represent a return of capital or capital gains are recorded as a reduction of cost of investment or as a realized gain, respectively. The calendar year-end amounts of ordinary income, capital gains, and return of capital included in distributions received from a Fund's investments in real estate investment trusts ("REITs") are reported to the Fund after the end of the calendar year; accordingly, the Funds estimate these amounts for accounting purposes until the characterization of REIT distributions is reported to the Fund after the end of the calendar year. Estimates are based on the most recent REIT distribution information available.

These “Book/tax” differences are considered either temporary (i.e., deferred losses, capital loss carry forwards) or permanent in nature. To the extent these differences are permanent in nature, such amounts are reclassified within the composition of net assets based on their federal tax basis treatment; temporary differences do not require reclassification.

(d) Foreign Currency Translation — Investment securities and other assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into U.S. dollar amounts at the date of valuation. Purchases and sales of investment securities and income and expense items denominated in foreign currencies are translated into U.S. dollar amounts on the respective dates of such transactions. The Trust does not isolate that portion of the results of operations resulting from changes in foreign exchange rates on investments from the fluctuations arising from changes in market prices of securities held. Such fluctuations are included with the net realized and unrealized gain or loss from investments.

Reported net realized foreign exchange gains or losses arise from sales of foreign currencies, currency gains or losses realized between the trade and settlement dates on securities transactions, and the difference between the amounts of dividends, interest, and foreign withholding taxes recorded on the company’s books and the U.S. dollar equivalent of the amounts actually received or paid. Net unrealized foreign exchange gains and losses arise from changes in the fair values of assets and liabilities, other than investments in securities at fiscal period end, resulting from changes in exchange rates.

(e) Concentration — The Real Estate Income Fund concentrates its investments in real estate securities (i.e., securities of issuers in the real estate industry), including securities issued by REITs. The Fund invests substantially all (and under normal market conditions, at least 80%) of its net assets (plus any borrowings for investment purposes) in income producing real estate securities. The Advisor evaluates securities based primarily on the relative attractiveness of income and secondarily considers their potential for capital appreciation. The Advisor considers real estate securities to be securities issued by a company that (a) derives at least 50% of its revenues from the ownership, construction, financing, management or sale of commercial, industrial or residential real estate, or (b) has at least 50% of its assets invested in such real estate. The Advisor plans to sell a security if, in the judgment of the portfolio managers, the security’s income potential has been compromised, an issuer’s fundamentals have deteriorated or may deteriorate or a more attractive investment opportunity is identified. The Fund invests in both equity and debt securities and invests to a substantial degree in securities issued by REITs. REITs are pooled investment vehicles that own interests in real estate, real-estate related loans or similar interests, and their revenue primarily consists of rent derived from owned, income producing real estate properties and capital gains from the sale of such properties. A majority of the REITs in which the Fund invests are generally considered by the Advisor to be medium- or small-capitalization companies. The Fund will not invest in non-traded REITs that are sponsored, managed or distributed by affiliates of the Advisor. Equity securities in which the Fund may invest include common and preferred stocks, convertible securities, rights and warrants to purchase common stock and depositary receipts. Although the Advisor anticipates that the Fund will invest a substantial portion of its assets in equity securities, the Fund may invest up to 100% of its net assets in debt securities of any maturity, duration or credit rating. Debt securities in which the Fund may invest include corporate debt obligations and CMBS. Debt securities acquired by the Fund may also include high-yield debt securities (commonly referred to as “junk” bonds) issued or guaranteed by real estate companies or other companies. The Fund invests in securities across all market capitalization ranges. The Fund may invest up to 15% of its net assets in illiquid securities

The BDC Income Fund invests substantially all (and under normal market conditions, at least 80%) of its net assets (plus any borrowings for investment purposes) in common stocks and other equity securities of business development companies (“BDCs”) that are traded on one or more nationally recognized securities exchanges. The equity securities in which the Fund may invest consist of common stocks, securities convertible into common stocks; and preferred stocks. In addition, although the Fund typically invests in equity securities, the Fund may invest up to 20% of its net assets in debt securities of BDCs and other issuers of any maturity, duration or credit rating.

The Tactical Credit Fund aims to use related credit asset classes on both the long and short side to generate an attractive rate of return with low volatility. Portfolio construction is implemented with a relative value framework and looks across the entire balance sheet of a corporation from senior secured down through subordinated, equity-linked bonds. This hedged approach is designed to generate performance that is less reliant on the direction of the overall market than a typical credit-based fund.

Cash & Cash Equivalents: The Funds consider their investment in a Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (“FDIC”) insured interest bearing account to be cash and cash equivalents. Cash and cash equivalents are valued at cost plus any accrued interest. The Funds maintain cash balances, which, at times may exceed federally insured limits. The Funds maintain these balances with a high-quality financial institution.

Concentration of Credit Risk: The Fund places its cash with a banking institution, which is insured by FDIC. The FDIC limit is $250,000. At various times throughout the year, the amount on deposit may exceed the FDIC limit and subject the Fund to a credit risk. The Funds do not believe that such deposits are subject to any unusual risk associated with investment activities.

(f) Use of Estimates in Financial Statements — In preparing financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, management makes estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements, as well as the reported amounts of income and expense during the year. Actual results may differ from these estimates.

(g) Share Valuations — The net asset value (“NAV”) per share of each Fund is calculated by dividing the sum of the value of the securities held by the Fund, plus cash or other assets, minus all liabilities (including estimated accrued expenses) by the total number of shares outstanding of the Fund, rounded to the nearest cent. A Fund’s shares will not be priced on the days on which the NYSE is closed for trading. The offering and redemption price per share of each Fund is equal to a Fund’s NAV per share.

(h) Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes — The Funds recognize the tax benefits of uncertain tax positions only where the position is “more likely than not” to be sustained assuming examination by tax authorities. Management has analyzed the Fund’s tax positions, and has concluded that no liability for unrecognized tax benefits should be recorded related to uncertain tax positions taken on returns filed for open tax years (2015-2017) or expected to be taken in the Fund’s 2018 tax returns. The Funds identify its major tax jurisdictions as U.S. Federal, however the Funds are not aware of any tax positions for which it is reasonably possible that the total amounts of unrecognized tax benefits will change materially in the next twelve months.

(i) Fair Value Measurements — The Funds utilize various methods to measure the fair value of most of its investments on a recurring basis. U.S. GAAP establishes a hierarchy that prioritizes inputs to valuation methods. The three levels of inputs are:

Level 1 – Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the company has the ability to access.

Level 2 – Observable inputs other than quoted prices included in Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly. These inputs may include quoted prices for the identical instrument on an inactive market, prices for similar instruments, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, yield curves, default rates and similar data.

Level 3 – Unobservable inputs for the asset or liability, to the extent relevant observable inputs are not available, representing the Fund’s own assumptions about the assumptions a market participant would use in valuing the asset or liability, and would be based on the best information available.

The availability of observable inputs can vary from security to security and is affected by a wide variety of factors, including, for example, the type of security, whether the security is new and not yet established in the marketplace, the liquidity of markets, and other characteristics particular to the security. To the extent that valuation is based on models or inputs that are less observable or unobservable in the market, the determination of fair value requires more judgment. Accordingly, the degree of judgment exercised in determining fair value is greatest for instruments categorized in Level 3.

The inputs used to measure fair value may fall into different levels of the fair value hierarchy. In such cases, for disclosure purposes, the level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement falls in its entirety, is determined based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety.

The following table summarizes the valuation of the Trust’s securities at December 31, 2018 using fair value hierarchy:

*The financial information presented reflects the expense reimbursement by Shelton Capital Management in effect from May 1, 2018 to December 31, 2018.

A Fund must pay its current ordinary operating expenses before the Advisor is entitled to any reimbursement of fees and/or expenses. Any such reimbursement is contingent upon the Board of Trustees review and approval prior to the time the reimbursement is initiated.

As compensation for administrative duties not covered by the management agreement, Shelton Capital receives an administration fee, which was revised on January 1, 2011. The administration fee is based on assets held, in aggregate, by the SCM Trust and other funds within the same “family” of investment companies managed and administered by Shelton Capital. The fee rates are 0.10% on the first $500 million, 0.08% on the next $500 million, and 0.06% on combined assets over $1 billion.

Certain officers and trustees of the Trust are also partners of Shelton Capital. Gregory T. Pusch has served as the Chief Compliance Officer (“CCO”) of the Trust since March 2017. Mr. Pusch is also employed by Shelton Capital, the Advisor and Administrator to the Trust. The Trust is responsible for the portion of his salary allocated to his duties as the CCO of the Trust during his employment, and Shelton Capital is reimbursed by the Trust for this portion of his salary. The level of reimbursement is reviewed and determined by the Board of Trustees at least annually.

The SCM Trust adopted a Distribution Plan (the “Plan”), as amended July 29, 2017, pursuant to Rule 12b-1 under the Investment Company Act of 1940, whereby the Investor Shares of each Fund pays the Distributor, an affiliate of Shelton Capital, for expenses that relate to the promotion and distribution of shares. Under the Plan, the Investor Shares of the Funds will pay the Distributor a fee at an annual rate of 0.25%, payable monthly, of the daily net assets attributable to such Fund's Investor Shares.

For the year ended December 31, 2018 the following were paid:

NOTE 4 - TAX CHARACTER

Reclassifications: Accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America require certain components of net assets be reclassified between financial and tax reporting. These reclassifications have no effect on net assets or net asset value per share. For the year ended December 31, 2018, permanent differences resulting from different book and tax accounting for expiration of capital loss carryforwards, PFIC Reclasses and treatment of foreign currency gains have been reclassified. The reclassifications were as follows:

	Increase (Decrease) Paid-In Capital	Distributable Income/(Loss)
BDC Income Fund	$ (1,824)	$ 1,824

NOTE 6 - RECENT ACCOUNTING PRONOUNCEMENTS

In August 2018, the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”) adopted regulations that eliminated or amended disclosure requirements that were redundant or outdated in light of changes in SEC requirements, accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (“GAAP”), International Financial Reporting Standards, or changes in technology or the business environment. These regulations were effective November 5, 2018, and the Fund is complying with them effective with these financial statements.

In August 2018, FASB issued Accounting Standards Update No. 2018-13 (“ASU 2018-13”), “Disclosure Framework - Changes to the Disclosure Requirements for Fair Value Measurement,” which amends the fair value measurement disclosure requirements of ASC Topic 820 (“ASC 820”), “Fair Value Measurement.” ASU 2018-13 includes new, eliminated, and modified disclosure requirements for ASC 820. In addition, ASU 2018-13 clarifies that materiality is an appropriate consideration of entities when evaluating disclosure requirements. ASU 2018-13 is effective for all entities for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2019, including interim periods therein. Early adoption is permitted and the Funds have adopted ASU 2018-13 with these financial statements.

Basis for Opinion

These financial statements are the responsibility of the Funds’ management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Funds’ financial statements based on our audits. We are a public accounting firm registered with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) (“PCAOB”) and are required to be independent with respect to the Funds in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB. We have served as the auditor of one or more of the funds in the Trust since 2011.

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud. The Funds are not required to have, nor were we engaged to perform, an audit of the Funds' internal control over financial reporting. As part of our audits we are required to obtain an understanding of internal control over financial reporting, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Funds' internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion.

Our audits included performing procedures to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to error or fraud, and performing procedures that respond to those risks. Such procedures included examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. Our procedures included confirmation of securities owned as of December 31, 2018 by correspondence with the custodian. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.
