CGI-AMS announces new AMS Advantage[®] contracts totaling more than US$100 million

Partners with the City of New York to enhance AMS Advantage[®] solution to further integrate and improve management systems

Edgar Filing: CGI GROUP INC - Form 6-K

AMS Advantage® ERP solution suite selected by Wake County, North Carolina

Fairfax, Virginia April 5, 2006 CGI-AMS Inc., the wholly-owned U.S. operating subsidiary of CGI Group Inc., today announced seven-year contract signings totaling more than US$100 million by leading local governments for its AMS Advantage® ERP Suite. The City of New York, the largest municipal government in the U.S., has committed to implementing the latest version of AMS Advantage® to serve as the foundation for its enterprise-wide financial management and budgetary control systems. In addition, Wake County, North Carolina, widely regarded as one of the fastest growing and best managed counties in the country, has chosen the AMS Advantage® ERP Suite to support the county's human resources, finance, and budget systems.

With government best practices embedded in the solution, the AMS Advantage® suite is tailored to meet the unique administrative needs of state and local public sector entities, said Donna Morea, president of CGI-AMS. Having the largest city as well as one of the best managed counties select our solution is testament of our ability to bring real incremental value to our clients. These contracts represent the commitment public sector entities are making to proactively find solutions to improve government efficiency and better serve citizens.

The City of New York is one of many jurisdictions that are currently using the AMS Advantage® suite who have committed to upgrading their capabilities. The City and CGI-AMS are working together to incorporate several significant enhancements into future releases of the AMS Advantage® solution to further improve the City's management systems with a reduced total cost of ownership. The recently signed seven-year contract is an innovative public/private partnership that enables the City to influence the solution's improvements, while customizing it to meet their specific needs by adding functionality that can then be shared with other jurisdictions. In addition to the customization, CGI-AMS will provide integration services to support dynamic interactions between these newer AMS Advantage® capabilities and the legacy ERP systems of the City, including previously independent Department of Education systems that can now be consolidated into a single city-wide system.

As a key component of Wake County's enterprise-wide technology vision, CGI-AMS will provide software, implementation services and ongoing maintenance support to improve each system's research and reporting capabilities, reduce data redundancies and paper, and provide users with timely access to information. As the second most populous county in North Carolina, Wake consists of 12 municipalities and includes Raleigh, the county seat and state capital, and has received numerous national and state awards for its financial and budget management practices. They are one of only 22 counties in the nation with an AAA bond rating by all three major rating agencies.

AMS Advantage® is a flexible, open architecture solution that automates document workflow, decreases paperwork, improves customer service and facilitates decision-making. It employs a government fund accounting model as its foundation, using open web technology standards to simplify system deployment and integration with external systems. The flexible design lowers risk, total cost of ownership, and other processes expressly designed for government. It is used by more than 190 public sector clients, 47 of which have already committed to implementing the new Web-based AMS Advantage® 3+ solutions. CGI-AMS incorporates more than 35 years of government experience and knowledge in the public sector market.

Wake County, North Carolina, Selects CGI-AMS Advantage ERP Suite

AMS Advantage® ERP solution suite selected by Wake County, North Carolina, to achieve a paperless future

Fairfax, Virginia April 5, 2006 CGI-AMS Inc., the wholly-owned U.S. operating subsidiary of CGI Group Inc. (CGI) (TSX: GIB.SV.A; NYSE: GIB), earlier today announced that it has been selected by Wake County, North Carolina, widely regarded as one of the fastest growing and best managed counties in the country, as its partner to integrate the web-based AMS Advantage® ERP Suite to support the county's human resources, finance, and budget systems.

As a key component of Wake County's enterprise-wide technology vision, the new US$9.5 million contract for software, implementation services and ongoing maintenance support will be provided by CGI-AMS to improve each system's research and reporting capabilities, reduce data redundancies and paper, and provide users with timely access to information.

The County was seeking an all-encompassing government-centric solution to elevate us to the next level of convenience and service excellence for all of our stakeholders, said Melinda Canady, director of finance, Wake County. We performed an extensive evaluation of all the solutions currently on the market and found AMS Advantage® to be the platinum standard for public sector ERP systems.

With government best practices embedded in the solution, the AMS Advantage® suite is tailored to meet the unique administrative needs of state and local public sector entities.

Wake County's vision and commitment to enhancing customer service by transforming its technical operations through the integration of key services is very cutting edge, said Nazzic Turner, senior vice president, CGI-AMS. The county has always been at the forefront of delivering excellence to the public, and we are proud to partner with them on this important initiative.

As the second most populous county in North Carolina, Wake consists of 12 municipalities and includes Raleigh, the county seat and state capital, and has received numerous national and state awards for its financial and budget management practices. They are one of only 22 counties in the nation with an AAA bond rating by all three major rating agencies.
